ACCJ to Issue ACCJ Journal Japanese Language Supplement

July 5 2010 – The American Chamber of Commerce in Japan (ACCJ) announces the issuance of a Japanese language supplement to the ACCJ's monthly flagship magazine "ACCJ Journal".

Launched 46 years ago, the ACCJ Journal, and its companion website, were completely redeveloped in January of this year. Carefully selected articles from the ACCJ Journal that cover ACCJ advocacy activity and expert views on politics, the economy and general business environment are translated into Japanese. This is the first time for the ACCJ to issue an ACCJ Journal supplement composed in Japanese.

The ACCJ Journal Japanese Language Supplement is mailed to Japanese politicians, bureaucrats, chambers of commerce, and select private sector companies in addition to ACCJ members.

"The ACCJ Journal Japanese supplement is an effort to provide policymakers and stakeholders further insight into the thinking and opinions of leaders in the international business community in Japan," says ACCJ Vice President and Communications Advisory Council Chair William R. Bishop.

About ACCJ

The American Chamber of Commerce in Japan (ACCJ) was established in 1948 by representatives of 40 American companies and has grown into one of the most influential business organizations in Japan. Consisting mainly of executives from American companies, currently the ACCJ has members representing 1,000 companies with offices in Tokyo, Nagoya, and Osaka. Working closely with the governments of the United States and Japan, business organizations, and others, the ACCJ promotes activities that help achieve its mission of further developing commerce between the United States and Japan, promoting the interests of U.S. companies and members, and improving the international business environment in Japan. Over 60 committees representing various industries play the ACCJ's central role in making policy recommendations through advocacy tools such as the Business White Paper and holding over 500 events and seminars annually on public policy and economic trends. The ACCJ is also committed to promoting charitable events and other CSR activities.

About Japan Inc Communications K.K.

Established in March 2000, Japan Inc Communications K.K. (JIC) publishes a business website and a series of newsletters under the J@pan Inc. brand that cover issues, trends and controversies across all industries in Japan with a particular focus on foreigners. J@pan Inc. features independently researched stories ranging from politics and investment to inventions and education, as well as tracing the commercial journeys of individual entrepreneurs and companies.
