

The DNA of ANA: Taking On New Challenges and Creating Growth to Become the World's Leading Airline Group

ANA Holdings Inc. is a holding company that fully owns All Nippon Airways (ANA) and owns additional shares in low-cost carriers such as Vanilla Air and Peach Aviation. The ANA Group also develops its operations in various fields centering around its air transportation business. For instance, ANA Sales provides travel services and ANA Trading is in the trade and retail business.

The ANA Group's core business, a full-service carrier, has provided air transportation services since 1952, with safe operations as a top priority. Today, ANA ranks 8th among global airlines in terms of the number of domestic passengers and 14th in terms of total passengers, including those within our international services. In addition, ANA has grown to become a world-leading airline with more than 50 million passengers in a year. Now, ANA is the number one airline group in Japan with regard to operating revenues, available seat kilometers (ASK), revenue passenger kilometers (RPK), and number of passengers. With the international passenger business as its growth driver, the ANA Group will pursue its goal to be the world's leading airline group.

At this event, ANA Holdings President and CEO Shinya Katanozaka will make a brief presentation on the ANA Group's future strategy and share the company's history of continually taking on the challenges of international business. He will also discuss the impact of the Trump Administration on the ANA Group. Don't miss this unique opportunity and learn how to achieve growth through adversity.
